

SCHOOL-BASED THERAPY PROGRAM

What is it?

Community Reach Center operates the largest school-based services program in Colorado. School-based services provide students in elementary, secondary schools and community college with convenient access to counseling and case management services, in the familiar setting of their school. School-based therapy can help students to resolve mental health concerns: including anxiety, depression, trauma, substance abuse and relationship issues. It also provides supportive counseling to students who have become withdrawn, disengaged and are having difficulty keeping up with schoolwork.

Where is it?

The school-based therapy program provides counseling and case management services to students and families in all Adams County School Districts and Front Range Community College. Visit CommunityReachCenter.org/Child-Youth-and-Family-Services for a list of Adams County schools served by the school-based therapy program.

Eligible Students Must:

- Currently be enrolled in a school served by the school-based therapy program.
- Express motivation, along with their family, to work toward treatment goals.

About the Therapists

Our school-based therapists have Masters degrees in Counseling, Psychology or Social Work. Most are licensed in the state of Colorado as Professional Counselors, Clinical Social Workers or Marriage and Family Therapists.

Want to find out about opportunities to partner with Community Reach Center's school-based program? Email us at ContactUs@CommunityReachCenter.org